in

admin@gmi-eu.org

All GMI Members and their spouses, along with all the friends of GMI, are herewith cordially invited and we are pleased to send you this first (provisional) agenda.

The friends of GMI, who are not yet members, are encouraged to join GMI at this special occasion and benefit from the conference.

This year your Steering Committee has made a special effort to present an even better program than the years before.

- ✓ We have an up-to-date and practically useful content addressed in an interactive and entertaining format that is supported by visually rich material.
- ✓ Our topics are chosen from critical and controversial subjects.
- ✓ We will distribute handouts.
- ✓ We are sensitive to the fact that most of our audience are non-native English speakers.

HOW TO REGISTER?

This year we have made some changes in order to meet members' wishes. The main difference is that you can book your accommodation now directly yourself. How? Please read further.

1. This year we offer for the first time a “Hands-On In-Depth Training”, an event reserved to GMI members only. Interested? Read more on Page 3. As seats will fill up quickly, we invite you to register at your earliest.
2. Since the “Hands-On In-Depth Training” starts on Sunday at 9 AM sharp, you may decide to arrive on Saturday evening. Please book your accommodation accordingly!
3. Booking of the Annual Conference will be processed as usual. Progress to Page 5 please.
4. The Annual Conference will start on Monday at 8 AM with the AGM. Those not taking part in the In-Depth Training please arrive on Sunday the latest and join the networking on Sunday evening.
5. This year the booking of the accommodations is a second step, separate from the training/ conference booking. Please choose your accommodation from the three choices we have arranged – see Page 6 for how to do it. In a nutshell:
 - A-Ja Hotel - A modern and nice Baltic Wellness Hotel.
 - The School Accommodations - well, school accommodations; economic, clean, neat, and directly at the activity sites.
 - The Apartments - ideal for small groups of two to four. Participants staying in the apartments may have breakfast at the school for a reasonable rate.

Hands-On In-Depth Training

“Open Source Investigation for Marine Investigators”

These days internet searches are among the most resorted tool of the investigators. Almost all searches start on search engines - mostly on Google.

This Hands-On In-Depth Training will ensure that you will

- start to save substantial time during your searches,
- more often cross-check and verify “results”,
- feel more certain to have covered all relevant open source information.

Marcus Lindemann, managing director of Autorenwerk, will introduce you to many lesser known search methods and strategies – including some methods that are -you bet – not in the mind of those who try to hide.

Marcus Lindemann, managing director of Autorenwerk in Berlin

“His Passion is to identify People who try to hide.”

Some of the topics on the agenda are:

- reverse image search,
- metadata search,
- social media hidden graphic search,
- uncover people’s contact data,
- link real names to nicknames and vice versa,
- tools to access deleted websites, deleted contents and recent amendments.

Autorenwerk is a leading information authority in information processing and consultant for many high end information processing institutions. For over two decades Marcus Lindemann has trained hundreds of journalists in open source investigation. Since 2012 he has been training police investigators and insurance companies’ fraud specialists. His passion is to identify people who try to hide.

Minimum number of participants for this activity is five and it is limited to fourteen participants only. Participants will have to supply their own laptop with Wi-Fi access. Lunch and coffee/ tea breaks are included.
